What we say: When Electroporation meets Electrophoresis, you get a union that makes for a super-charged anti-ageing facial treatment. This medical-inspired facial uses low voltage electric currents to enable active ingredients to penetrate the skin. Transmitted via a metal rod (which I was holding) and the smooth glide of another metal probe over my skin, a cocktail of growth peptides, hyaluronic acid, vitamin C and E was dispensed to rejuvenate and repair. A firming cream mask afterward helps reinforce firming and toning. The indulgence left me literally glowing with skin that looked and felt heaps better.
